Dear Parents and Carers,

RE: Pegasus Museum Day

Following the success of last year's Museum Day, we will be opening our doors again. Throughout the academy, all children have been working extremely hard on the thematic curriculum. This curriculum combines art, design and technology, geography and history into one topic. During these sessions, children are encouraged to work independently to create well-presented thematic books that they can be proud of in the future.

To celebrate all of their hard work, we are opening 'The Pegasus Museum' at Atwood on Friday 6th February, for one day only. Parents and carers are invited to visit the museum between 9:05am – 10:15am, where there will be tour guides to escort adults around the different zones of learning. The tour will include work from year 1 to year 6 as well as an opportunity to see some of the work that Reception children have been doing in their Monsters topic.

On the day, please drop your child to school as normal and then make your way to the front of the school and wait to enter via the hall where guides will be waiting. This event was very busy last year and we anticipate being busy again so please be patient as we work through the logistics of letting visitors in. Although you will be able to visit your own child's class, the tour will give you the chance to look at learning through the school so please take the opportunity to visit the whole museum. Please note that the visit is not intended to offer an extended opportunity to sit and work with your child or look through all of their schoolbooks.

The museum will re-open after school from 3:15pm – 4pm, giving parents and carers another opportunity to look at their child's thematic work from this year. Teachers from each class will be asking some children to stay behind after school to talk to parents about their learning.

We hope you can join us for this exciting day.

Thank you for your support.
