Dear Sir or Madam,

I am writing to you so you know about the varmint's being in danger. This is a serious situation because these innocent, kind-hearted, caring creatures are just dying out. I feel that we need to do something about this.

Dwelling in a peaceful land full of buzzing bees, these creatures, that are very cute, all rely on farming because it is all grass. If they don't have nature then they will be extinct.

This invasion has caused a massacre of destruction to their habitat. Green land has been overtaken by smoke, darkness and looming buildings. All of the sun's warm glow has disappeared because all of the gloomy buildings has blocked the sun. Bees are dying out because there is no pollen because there is no flowers. The environment is in no living state. Birds can not eat because there is no dirt for worms.

It is essential that we act immediately because otherwise they will be extinct. How would you feel if this was your home?

Please help us save the varmint's and their friends.

Yours sincerely

Dean
