Dear Sir / Madam,

I am writing to you to educate you about an urgent issue. The poor creatures, you refer to them as varmints, have been victimised by the others. I'm certain that you understand and fully believe the varmints need all the help they can get.

These adorable creatures are completely dependent on the environment and these invaders robbed them of their homes. These animals are trying to save the environment and in doing so they're saving us. They're saving Earth and you're gonna let them die if you don't help them their imminent extinction will become immediate extinction.

It is most likely that if this continues much longer the world will destroy itself. Pollution will halve the life of whoever breathes it in but by then we would be suffocated. In this situation not helping them has no pros only cons. I imagine if the Others were taking your home destroying everything you have. How would you feel if you were one of the varmints?

In brief, not helping them would destroy all humans on Earth. Without a doubt you understand that eradicating the enemy would save Earth so please save the varmints

Save the varmints!

Yours Sincerely

Spike Townsend
