

Dear Sir / Madam,

I am writing to inform you that a crisis is unfolding and an army of obnoxious creatures now reign the whole town. I am outraged that the MP haven't done anything about it. It used to be an oasis of calm, but now ~~not~~ one can hear themselves think. Would you like it if this happened to you and these infuriating monstrosities took over your home?

Before these horrid creatures arrived, it was calm, peaceful and joyous. The wispy grass used to whistle in the fresh air and the bees hummed while being pushed around in the slow wind. Laughing and giggling, ~~the~~ smelling plants and having fun we played in the fields. Flowers waved side to side in the light breeze and the low murmuring of moles was heard from above ground. Flying kites, watching birds, smelling flowers and catching bees, but no one knew it was their last steps in nature.

Now, my joy is gone. No fields were seen and birds, bees and every other animals are lost. The demolished nature filled fields were lost. Everywhere was ominous and polluted. The atmosphere has disappeared and all I want is for there to be nothing, but nature. My planet is in danger, you must feel guilty? My-kind will become extinct, if nothing is done we will die out. The town is full of pollution, the dark rainy sky and ominous, skyscrapers. We need our greenery back and if nothing is done we will go extinct. How do you feel now, do you want us to die out or what?

If they stay the world and everything around it will become dark and grey and nothing will come in or out of these disturbing varmints new home. If nothing is done everything will be taken over by the monstrosities. Do you want them to rule the world?

Everything we need to do will be listed in this final paragraph. We urge you to take these irrelevant creatures and destroy them. ~~Do~~ Do you even care about these monstrosities? We might have to resort to building an army; if - and only if - they get incredibly violent. Forcing the vile varmints to ~~leave~~ flee will probably be our only option. A more peaceful approach would be to make a new law that states: Everything will go back to the green oasis that this once was.

Please respond and start this now. We must get rid of these creatures and fix our life.

Yours sincerely,

bo.
